

The Eruption of Pompeii

On a lovely sunny day in Pompeii, the ground began to shake and day turned to night. They thought it was an earthquake but it wasn't it was Mount Vesuvius erupting on Pompeii. The whole city was covered in ash, smoke and lava. Every one tried to escape but they couldn't they all died because they all got buried with plants, stone and mud.

THE CITY OF POMPEII

Pompeii had the biggest eruption in history. They all tried to escape but they could not so they all died and that was nearly the end. It blew off the side of the volcano. At 2 am, the eruption was getting hectically chaotic.

18 HOURS LATER

The eruptions started to slow down but it was still going for 2 days. After 2 day, the eruption stopped. Some people escaped by boat but them felt bad for their friends and their houses. So that was the end of the eruption.

