

The volcano eruption

In Pompeii a massive eruption occurred in the early hours of the morning. It started on the 24 August 79 AD while killing a multiple of citizens but not all from Pompeii.

Pompeii had been through multiple earth quakes. Although it involved multiple deaths they were used to it. One day the volcano was shaking the people where not scared because this has happened before and nobody died.

Later that day, the volcano started to shake. Everybody didn't care in till the volcano went BOOM. The lava was pouring down everybody looked and ran some people went back to get there stuff.

But they should not of gone back because the volcano was coming. So the people that went died. And if I was them I would just run as fast as I can and forget about the stuff.

As the lava was coming everybody ran and tried to hide. But they didn't because the lava just blow it down. So like thousands of people died of the volcano.

Lots of people died of volcanos because there are 500 volcanos over the world. They happen naturally commonly known as a natural disaster. The eruption goes 114km in the air.